3.	In section II.D.1.iv. the RFP asks that proposals identify both "the number of low-income and the number of moderate income participants". Under scoring criteria the RFP adds a criteria for "inclusion of moderate income participants". We assume this means that additional points are awarded if a project includes both low and moderate income participants. Please verify. Will there be any point differentiation if there are more low-income or more moderate-income participants? In other words, is the request for number of low-income and number of moderate income in II.D.1.iv. for informational purposes or will it impact points in the scoring criteria?	The RFP's scoring criteria allows for additional points to be awarded to proposals that provide direct benefits to moderate-income participants. Those points will not be awarded if the proposal only provides direct benefits to low income participants.
